Learn and Experience Noh: 650 Years of Tradition at OTABISHO in Sakuragicho, Yokohama Tariff

Learn and Experience Noh, the World's Oldest Performing Art, at OTABISHO in Sakuragicho, Yokohama

Overview

Noh is one of Japan's representative classical performing arts, with a 650-year history. Recognized as the world's oldest performing art, it was inscribed on UNESCO's Intangible Cultural Heritage list in 2008.

At OTABISHO Yokohama Noh Theater, visitors can experience Noh and Kyogen from the perspective of "seeing, knowing, experiencing, and learning", contributing to ongoing efforts to promote these traditional art forms.

Guests can also explore exhibitions, attend lectures, and capture memorable photos on stage or while posing with a Noh mask. Additionally, they can learn more about Noh through lectures by professional Noh performers and staff.
